INTRODUCTION

The 1987 supplement to the Georgia Mediagraphy updates the original document and the first supplement published in 1982 and 1985 respectively. These three publications are guides to print and nonprint materials about Georgia and Georgians. The information was provided by Georgia educators, and national and local publishers. Entries are arranged under the subject headings used in Essential Skills for Georgia Schools adopted by the Georgia Board of Education in 1980. Essential Skills lists specific skills objectives in ten subject areas.

Criteria for inclusion were appropriateness for K-12 students and commercial availability of the item during the project's research period. The grade level distribution leans toward the upper grades because of publishing output as translated to us. Most entries have recent copyright dates, yet some entries with older copyright dates were included when the title had not been proposed for listing in the earlier publication. When an author was responsible for several successive titles, the full name of the author was given beside the first title. A dotted line is in the author's position for the remainder of the titles in the succession.

Included in this supplement is a list of Georgia-related resources available from our Videotape Duplication Collection. A copy of the catalog for this entire video collection may be obtained through the System Media Contact Person. Media specialists are also reminded to consult the Instructional Television Schedule Book for additional productions.

Every effort was made to locate currently available publications. However, before ordering, check the availability of print items in a recent copy of Books in Print and of nonprint items in one of the National Information Center for Educational Media (NICEM) indices. A list of publishers and their addresses has been included at the back of the supplement to assist you in ordering.

The Georgia Department of Education appreciates the many publishers and distributors who assisted us by providing information for this supplement. This supplement can be a useful and valuable tool for media specialists and teachers in planning meaningful multimedia approaches to learning. However, inclusion of an entry does not indicate endorsement by the Georgia Department of Education.

This supplement is copyrighted and not available for commercial reproduction. Local school systems may reproduce additional copies of the supplement for use in their schools.

Inclusion in no way indicates endorsement by the Georgia Department of Education.
